HISTORY

Marie Wilkinson was a lifetime social and civil rights activist who fought against poverty, hunger, homelessness, joblessness, and injustice. Marie founded the Aurora, Illinois food pantry in the 1950's after a near-death experience, which caused her to make a personal commitment to helping the less fortunate.

Driven by a new life purpose, Marie began giving out bags of food to those in need from her bungalow on View Street. She recruited friends and neighbors to help, and soon she had started a soup kitchen and food pantry. Today, the food pantry continues to serve the community of Aurora, Kane County, and the surrounding areas from three community facilities.

TODAY

The Marie Wilkinson Food Pantry (MWFP) is led by Executive Director, Diane Renner and Board Chair, Theodia Gillespie, whose commitments to Mrs. Wilkinson's vision can be witnessed daily throughout the community. Mrs. Renner is a leader in the food pantry field and is the go-to executive in the northern Illinois region for navigating food insecurity. Upon Mrs. Renner's retirement in the fall of 2024, the board of directors has decided to conduct a search for Mrs. Renner's successor beginning in August of 2024.

VISION

Engage our community as a leader in the ongoing fight against hunger.

MISSION

To continue the legacy of Marie Wilkinson, the MWFP is dedicated to meeting the hunger needs of individuals and families in Aurora and surrounding communities by educating, empowering, and enlightening people to be self-sustainable through collaborations and partnerships.
